Can love transcend deceit and distrust?

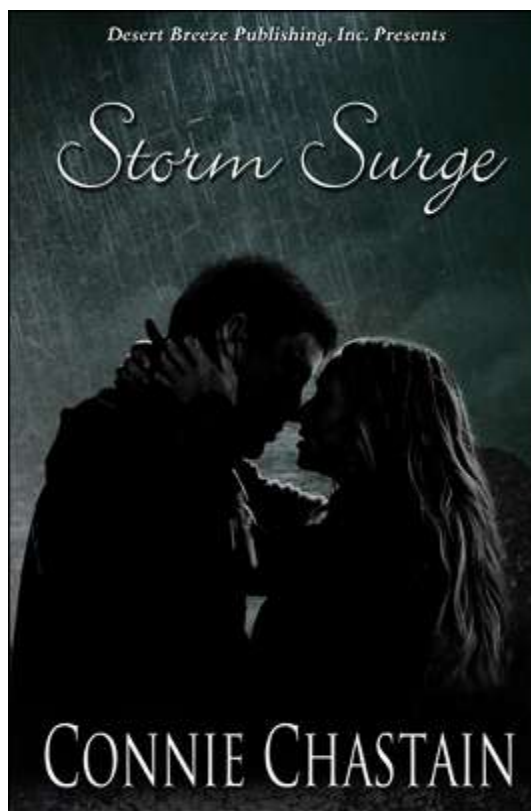

Teaser

A consumer watchdog agent goes undercover to catch an independent adjuster suspected of insurance fraud, but comes to believe in his innocence and integrity instead.

Blurb

On the subtropical and hurricane-prone Florida coast, Briana Farrior goes undercover for her employer, a consumer watchdog agency. Her assignment: infiltrate a small property and casualty claims company and find evidence of insurance fraud that will bring its crooked owner, Justin Adair, to justice.

But a few weeks of working closely with the handsome, charming businessman convinces Briana of his innocence and integrity. Finding themselves intensely attracted to each other, the pair must deal with her deceit and his distrust as they struggle toward love, while a ruthless adversary from Justin's past, now obsessed with revenge, and a category five hurricane endanger them both.
